

Bernard S. Groseclose, Jr.
President and CEO, SC State Ports Authority

Mr. Groseclose earned a degree in business administration (economics) from Hampden-Sydney College and a master in business administration from the College of William and Mary. Prior to joining the Ports Authority in 1985, Mr. Groseclose spent six years with Rockwell International, rising to the position of manager of financial analysis. Mr. Groseclose is a member of the Executive Committee of the International Association of Ports and Harbors and the Board of the American Association of Port Authorities, for which he previously chaired its Planning and Research Committee. He is co-author of the book Strategic Planning: A Guide for the Port Industry and serves on the Committee on Ports & Channels for the National Academy of Science's Transportation Research Board. He has served as chairman of the South Carolina World Trade Center – Charleston, president of the South Atlantic & Caribbean Ports Association and serves on the Advisory Councils of the Intermodal Transportation Program at the College of Charleston and the Center for International Business at the University of South Carolina. Mr. Groseclose was the Director, Planning and Development prior to being appointed President and Chief Executive Officer in 1997.